Design Rationale

I want to design a page to introduce myself to who want to make friends with me. Firstly, I design the home page including my name and my enthusiasm. Since I like simple style design, and I love blue, I choose blue as dominant color of my page. I use the inline layout to put the button and the navigation tag is inspired by the example on the piazza. I love traveling and took many photos, so I want to put more pictures to show these beauties. The website has four pages: home page, trip page, about page and contact page.

I implement PHP element to send me an email. The form uses post method to send the comment to me. It will save the user's name and user's email. Also it has regular expression to detect the accuracy of the users' input. When you input wrong name or email, it will remain you. If you do everything well, it will show contact completed.

WOW elements

1. In the trip page, the photos are slide style. It is all designed by css.

2. I use regular expression to detect the user's input and feedback to the user whether their message send successfully.

3. A responsive website that works well on mobile as well as desktops
